

Ridgetown Campus Students Learn About Career Options from Industry and Alumni

Students wanting to learn more about a career in agribusiness, horticulture, or veterinary technology had the chance to talk to experts in these fields first hand at last week's Ridgetown Campus Career Fair.

The Career Fair, held in the Rudy H. Brown Rural Development Centre, offered Ridgetown Campus students the chance to meet potential employers to discuss either summer or permanent career opportunities.

"Employers were really great to travel to Ridgetown for the Fair; they welcomed the chance to connect with potential future employees and possibly receive an attractive resume or two," noted Lezlie Cunningham, Career Fair Co-ordinator.

Some organizations were represented by Ridgetown alumni who came back to campus to share information with current students.

The Career Fair is a positive experience for both students and employers and an important annual event at the campus.

Our special thanks to all the employers who came to Ridgetown to share their career opportunities with Ridgetown students.

Debbie Schneider, Customer Service Representative, C & M Seeds, Palmerston, was one of many agribusinesses that participated in the recent Career Fair at the Rudy H. Brown Rural Development Centre.
