About the University of Guelph

The University of Guelph is a top Canadian comprehensive university, known for being research-intensive and focused on developing exceptional thinkers and engaged citizens.

We achieve excellence across our many colleges in a wide range of disciplines, dedicating our efforts to improving life in our world.

Our living and learning environments foster interdisciplinary exploration of new ideas that will meet the challenges of a complex and interconnected world.

Mace

The mace, presented to the University by the citizens of Guelph, is carried at the head of academic processions. It is topped by the silver crown of Queen Victoria, holds the insignia of Queen Elizabeth II and the founding colleges, and bears four plaques of the coat of arms of Canada, Ontario, the City of Guelph and the University. Sixteen symbols on the shank represent various college activities.

Crest

The three components of U of G's crest — the crest, shield and motto — reflect our deep ties with the community in which we reside and our historical connection to the University of Toronto. The white stallion links the University to the House of Hanover, where the name "Guelph" has its origins. The shield combines a book, astrolabe and cornucopia, all symbols of things vitally important to the University's identity.

The new crest is an evolution of the University's original. It connects us with U of G's heritage and legacy, while evolving to meet the needs of our future. Today, all members of U of G's community are proud Gryphons, and our updated branding embodies this shared identity by replacing the horse with a Gryphon.

Honorary Degrees

In conferring honorary degrees, the University seeks to honour individuals whose accomplishments demonstrate a standard of excellence that U of G hopes will inspire its graduates. The committee considers candidates from a broad range of categories, including the arts and sciences, business, public service, professions, and the voluntary sector, including long-standing or exceptional service to the University. The committee, from time to time, may recommend those whose outstanding contributions to their fields or to society have not yet been widely recognized.

Margaret Biggs

Margaret chaired the boards of the International Development Research Centre and the World University Service of Canada. She co-chaired a commission on global education to grow opportunities for young Canadians to study abroad.

A strategic thinker and deeply proud Canadian, Margaret contributed important publications on our country's approaches to trade, development cooperation and the UN's Sustainable Development Goals. She is a Matthews Fellow at Queen's University and a Senior Nonresident Fellow at the Brookings Institution..

Gervan Fearon

Dr. Gervan Fearon's leadership and passion for post-secondary institutions has been a driving force in advancing innovation and excellence. Since 2021, Fearon has served as the president of George Brown Polytechnic, following his tenure as president and vice-chancellor of both Brock University and Brandon University.

He has used his platform in post-secondary education to drive meaningful change through diversity and inclusion and improving access to transformative education opportunities for diverse communities. His influence extends well beyond Canada, and he continuously empowers communities around the world.

Fearon's actions serve as inspiration to empower students, colleagues, and the world towards a better future. Fearon remains passionate about the power of education in unlocking social and economic opportunities and creating positive change.

Paul Moyer

A visionary entrepreneur, a dedicated community leader, and a passionate advocate for innovation in agriculture and food safety, Paul Moyer's contributions have had a profound impact on the University of Guelph, the Canadian economy and global public health.

Paul was raised on a ninth-generation fruit farm in the Niagara Peninsula. Paul started Moyer's Apple Products, which now exports across North America and has become the global leader in caramel apples. His commercialization of novel technologies has innovated food safety, evidenced by his support of U of G research that helped catalyze the development of the Clean Flow process, addressing foodborne pathogens. The decontamination technology originally developed for food at Clean Works, the company he co-founded, was adapted during the pandemic to decontaminate N95 masks and other personal protective equipment.

Martin Pick

As president and co-leader of The Pickseed Companies Group, Martin Pick transformed a small Ontario-based family business into one of the world's leading forage and turf seed enterprises. A visionary agricultural leader, he introduced innovations that have significantly improved feed quality for Canadian producers.

Martin's leadership extends beyond business. He played an active role in national seed policy and regulatory advancement, championing certified seed and plant breeders' rights. His service as president and lifetime honorary member of the Canadian Seed Trade Association reflects his influence and long-standing commitment to industry integrity and sustainability.

Martin and his wife, Denise, also exemplify philanthropic leadership. Martin and Denise are the founders of the Remembering Otto & Marie Pick Charitable Foundation and major supporters of health care, housing and food security initiatives across Canada.

Karen Sorensen

A distinguished U of G alum whose career has been informed by civic responsibility, inclusive leadership and evidence-informed public service, Karen Sorensen's path reflects a deep commitment to democratic governance and public good.

As a three-term mayor of Banff, Alberta, and current Canadian Senator, Karen's commitment to issues such as affordable housing, regional transit, sustainable tourism, environmental stewardship and Indigenous relations transcend local governance, offering national and global models for place-based policy grounded in sustainability and reconciliation.

In the Senate, her pragmatic and visionary leadership continue to champion priorities focused on Indigenous Peoples, agriculture, forestry, energy and the environment. Her work resonates deeply with the ideals U of G strives to cultivate – thoughtful, principled and engaged citizenship.

Stephanie Valberg

Dr. Stephanie Valberg's unwavering commitment to excellence has made her a pre-eminent scholar whose profound influence on the field of veterinary medicine will have an impact for generations.

Dr. Valberg received her Doctor of Veterinary Medicine with Distinction from the Ontario Veterinary College. Her illustrious career spans decades of groundbreaking research in the diagnosis and treatment of equine muscular disorders, innovative clinical practice and dedicated mentorship.

Dr. Valberg was a member of the team that sequenced the equine genome, and she is the first woman to be inducted into the Equine Research Hall of Fame. Today, she is professor emeritus and director of the McPhail Equine Neuromuscular Research Laboratory at the Michigan State University College of Veterinary Medicine.
